Seventy-Eighth Year, No. 41 | Upland, California, Thursday, January 4, 1973 | 40 Pages 10 Cents

IN SEARCH OF LOOT -- These Upland youngsters got their pirate costumes for Xmas, and now feel like exerting themselves in spirit. They didn't find any old Spanish gold pieces buried around Upland. But they did find a 50 cent piece. And even the fiercest pirates like chocolate sodas.

AT COUNCIL MEETING

City Approves Housing Program

BY Patricia Reid
Of The News Staff

If Tuesday night's meeting is any indication, Upland townspeople and reporters can look forward to shorter City Council meetings in 1973! The meeting Tuesday lasted about 1 1/2 hours including a short executive session. Although hopes were high the beginning of December that a local bus system would be implemented by Jan. 15, the Council reversed that hope and tabled the matter for further investigation and study. The Council also unanimously approved a resolution prepared by City Attorney Donald Maroney approving an Experimental Housing Allowance Program (dirct subsidy) for a five year program.

At the Dec. 4 Council meeting it seemed like "all signs were go" for the Ontario-Upland bus service to begin operation on a six month trial basis. Both Upland and Ontario City Councils approved the contract with the Southern California Rapid Transit District. (RTD). Upland City Manager Elwin "Pinky" Alder reported that RTD had denied the request by the two cities to subsidize 29 percent of the operating costs during the first six months. Under the original agreement Ontario was to bear 58 percent of the cost, and Upland 42 percent. The two cities would pay a total of 70 percent of the cost and RTD would pay 30 percent. If the contract was renewed after June 30, 1973 the cities would then pay 100 percent of the cost.

Alder reported the monthly cost for the service without RTD subsidy would be $1,972 instead of $1,369. Councilman George Gibson raised some serious objections to the high cost of the RTD service and inquired if sufficient research had been done concerning having a locally operated bus system. "I wonder if RTD is taking us on this," Gibson remarked. After more discussion it was decided to investigate the subject of citywide bus service further. Councilman John McCarthy said he felt RTD was trying to get even with the city because Upland filed a claim denying payment of $11,000 of gas tax money for RTD's operating deficits in the county.

Alder said Ontario City Manager Ken Hunter feels RTD is better than trying to finance and operate a local bus service between the two communities. He feels there are too many problems involved that RTD could better handle.

There was considerable discussion and controversial arguing back and forth between Councilman Harold Bailin and Jerry Leggit, Director of the Upland Housing Authority, regarding the experimental Housing Assistance Program.

The controversy concerned two different resolutions -- one prepared by the Upland Housing Authority stating that direct rental subsidies should be provided to low income families for two years (administered by county offices) and that the Upland Housing Authority would lease dwelling units to families the additional three years and another prepared by the City stating the County should administer funds all five years. Bailin felt strongly that the federal moneys should be directly administered by the county for all five years to insure as much secrecy and privacy as possible. Leggit claimed the Housing Authority "is trying to make valid, positive changes in the way housing is made available to the people in the area." He felt it would be best to have the local Housing Authority handle the federal money the last three years.

Maroney pointed out that the experimental program (under Section 23 of Housing Act under HUD) has been altered several times and that subsidy checks were made jointly to landlords and tenants thus making it impossible to maintain the secrecy desired.

Following their decision at the last meeting, the Council was again split on a 3 - 2 vote (Bailin and McCarthy dissenting) on the first reading of an ordinance declaring a moratorium on Environmental Impact Reports. Maroney said since there was no emergency concerning the preparation of the EIRs the ordinance would be passed in the usual manner.

Maroney said there hasn't been much problem preparing the reports since the first deluge. The earliest date the moratorium could go into effect would be Jan. 15 now.

The Council unanimously approved the appointment of Charles Stapleton, AIP of Pomona, to act as a professional Planning Consultant for the city. Stapleton will advise on planning matters as needed.

J. T. Waller, manager of the First National Bank of Ontario, was appointed to replace Dick W. Pehl on the Chino Basin Regional Sewer Audit Committee.

In executive session Council voted to grant police and firemen a day off in lieu of the day they had to work which was an official day of morning for the late President Harry Truman.

Ms. Nichols of the Upland Junior Women's Club asked that the Council approve the planting of a Freedom Tree in honor of her father in Magnolia Park in Upland on Saturday, Jan. 13 at 2 p.m. The tree is to honor her father Roy Townley, a civilian, who has been missing in Laos since Dec. 27, 1971. After approving the planting, Ms. Nichols and her sister presented all the Councilmen with POW-MIA bracelets with her father's name engraved on them. This will be the first civilian Freedom Tree to be dedicated in the United States.

Policeman To Get 'FBI' Training

Upland's Police Capt. Thomas "Pete" Smith will leave for Quantico, Va., Saturday for a three month training session at the F.B.I. National Academy there. Smith was selected for the new course after intensive interviews and screening. He's in charge of the patrol division in Upland and supervises training and planning and community relations. The course will offer instruction on administrative matters concerning police work.

Smith has been in his present position since Aug. 1969. He's served 12 years with the Upland Police Department. He was born in Latham, Kansas in 1930 and moved to Upland with his family at age 6. He attended public schools in Upland and Chaffey Junior College. He entered the U.S Army in March of 1951 and served two years as a military policeman. He joined the Upland department in 1960 and was promoted to investigator in April of 1963. He was promoted to sergeant in 1967.

Smith has an associate of arts degree in police science and is a member of the Southern California Community Relations Officers Association, the Southern California Police Training Officers Association, the Southern California Juvenile Officers Association and the Upland Breakfast Lions Club. He is past vice president of the Lion's board of directors.

Currently he's an instructor in police science at Chaffey College. Smith and his wife, Bernadine, have four children, Tom, 19, Linda, 16, Sandy, 14; and David.

Building Begins Friday On New Home Development

Construction will start tomorrow on Lewis Homes in Upland, a 33-home luxury development by Lewis Homes of California. The new homes will be located at the northwest corner of 21st and San Antonio Ave. A June 1 completion date is anticipated for the 3 and 4 bedroom, one and two story homes.

Features which will be standard in the new Lewis development will be shake roofs, fireplaces, refrigerated air conditioning, Frigidaire double self-cleaning ovens, shag carpet, formal dining rooms and three-car garages.

The fully insulated homes will be located on 10,000 square foot lots. Conventional financing will be available on the new development.

Personnel Director Speaks Out--In Six Languages

Upland now has a linguist as its Personnel Director! No matter what language job applicants speak -- English, Spanish, German, Vietnamese, Portugese or Italian -- Jose M. Fuentes can converse with them!

"While in the Army in Germany I attended an intense German Language School and ranked third highest in the class," Fuentes said. "I discovered then I have a natural knack for learning different languages."

Originally from San Juan, Puerto Rico, Fuentes grew up speaking Spanish and still speaks Spanish at home and when he goes to visit relatives in Puerto Rico. Fuentes has four daughters, age 9, 6, 2 and 1 years old and wants them all to remain bilingual.

He finished a ten year tour of duty as an Army Reserve Officer last May. He traveled all over the world on various staff and command positions with the Army, including two combat tours in Vietnam. During the past two years Fuentes worked as Personnel Management Officer in the Personnel and Community Activities Department of Fort Ord, California.

Fuentes, who's seen the world, likes California best. He prefers Southern California and was hoping to get established here. The family bought a home in Cucamonga in July.

Fuentes graduated from the University of Puerto Rico with a major in Government and his first career goal was to be in the military. His father served 30 years as a Colonel in the Finance Corps of the Army. After his 10-year tour he decided to retire to civilian life, however.

Fuentes has 2 brothers and 5 sisters. Two sisters live in California and the rest of the family is still in Puerto Rico. One brother was in Vietnam as an officer at the same time he was, but their paths only crossed once.

Planning Commission Meeting Set

The Upland Planning Commission will meet next Thursday, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m., in the council chambers at Upland City Hall. The regular scheduled meeting of Jan. 4 was cancelled in memorium for former President Harry Truman.

Hearings on two environmental impact reports and a general plan amendment reaffirming city park and low-density residential uses between 13th and 16th Sts. east of Benson Ave. will be held.

One environmental impact report was prepared for the Lemon Wood Mobilehome Park, proposed by Maytreyek Homes on a 20-acre site on the north side of 14th Street on both sides of Benson Ave.

The other impact report concerns a proposed pro shop - Pomona Valley Tennis Club, to be located in the 1500 block of West 15th St.

Also on the agenda is a zone change hearing for some 30 acres of land east of Benson on both sides of 14th St.

THE WORK OF VANDALS? -- Uprooted trees around Upland were a common sight after Christmas weekend. Wind gusts managed to do considerable damage to city trees. Clean-up operations were in full swing this week!

Scout Council 51st Awards Banquet

The Old Baldy Council, Boy Scouts of America, will hold its 51st Recognition Banquet Thursday, Jan. 18, at Griswold's Old School House Pavilion in Claremont, according to Dr. Robert Taylor, council president.

The program for this banquet will be to honor the many hundreds of Scout leaders who've given of their time, talent, and abilities to serve and lead the more than 8000 Cubs, Scouts, and Explorers in the Old Baldy Council area.

A feature of the annual dinner program will be the presation of four Silver Beaver awards and one Silver Fawn award, these are the highest and most coveted awards that can be given volunteer men and women the Old Baldy Council.

As council president, Taylor will review the past year of Scouting in the Old Baldy Council and how it has affected the thousands of boys that have been served by the council's more than 150 sponsoring institutions and over 2,000 adult leaders.

WEEK-LONG ASSAULT

Santa Ana And The Havoc It Plays

Wind, wind go away -- come again another day?? City street maintenance crews, Edison Company crewmen and homeowners spent a good part of last week cleaning up after the Christmas hurricane-force winds. The main thrust of the storm hit Christmas Eve and early Christmas morning. The average wind velocity during the storm was measured at from 45-50 miles per hour with gusts reaching 90 m.p.h. according to officials at Ontario International Airport.

Jim Hastings, Superintendent of the Edison Company's Ontario Service Center, reported that ninety crewmen were called Christmas Eve from Pomona, Montebello, Covina, Monrovia and Alhambra to assist the West End crews. Between midnight Dec. 24 and 8 a.m. Dec. 25 Edison handled more than 800 customer service requests and repaired more than 150 downed service wires. Hastings said no one stopped working until last Wednesday. All week crews could be spotted all over the foothill communities repairing broken wires which had fallen into trees. Electrical service was interrupted Dec. 25 to some 600 customers for about an hour.

Hastings said he heard that a similar wind storm occurred on Christmas Day 17 years ago. Lee Travers, Upland's Director of Administrative Service, reported that street maintenance crews had worked hard and fast all week attempting to clear tree branches from roadways. "There was more damage down than I've seen in years," Travers said.

The city recruited 12 young men to assist city crews in clearing fallen tree branches. Travers said the residents had been very cooperative and understanding in the crisis and that he hadn't received too many concerned telephone calls. In response to complaints that debris and fallen branches was unsightly being piled up on the parkway down the center of Euclid Ave., Travers said the crews had to concentrate on clearing a path and will worry about appearance later. Several streets were closed for periods because uprooted trees had fallen. The second big priority was to clear drainage channels lest a rain should come and the brush covered the drains.

Travers said the extra work force would work this week to clean up the tree-strewn city. Thursday's day of mourning for President Harry Truman further delayed cleanup efforts. Because of the amount of Christmas trash that had accumulated, city refuse collection workers had to work Thursday for sanitary reasons.

Many Upland families pitched in and swept streets and cleared roadways so traffic could pass. Travers said the Decker family was especially honored for its help in clearing Euclid Ave. for traffic. Many families had chain saws and cut up fallen Grevilla trees for firewood. Several beautiful, large trees were uprooted in Upland Memorial Park, many area residents have to replace broken windows, Christmas decorations got blown to shreds and swimming pools were left filthy.

Upland Mission Airlifts Supplies To Managua

Food, medicine and gospel portions were aboard the mission agency's airplane when the World Gospel Crusades' Aerocommander left Upland Dec. 27, bound for the earthquake shattered city of Managua, Nicaragua.

The trip coincided with the early planning stages of a wide-ranging gospel distribution campaign "The Every Creature Crusade" set for Nicaragua in 1973, according to WGC President C. Mervin Russell.

Dr. Russell, who piloted the Aerocommander, took with him Larry Ward, president of Food for the Hungry, Kenneth Stroman, president of the Mexican Fellowship, and Hal Stack, president of Procurement Services Inc. -- all based in the Los Angeles area.

The men will present to Gen. Anastasio Somoza, a former president and still military strong man, samples of material available in food portions and medicines and later arrange shipments in quantities of the authorized commodities.

Following a vist of some four days in the stricken city where thousands lost their lives or were injured in the Dec. 23 quake, the plane will return to Upland. Ninety percent of the city of some 400,000 people is beyond use.

World Gospel Crusades is in its 20th year of literature missionary service working heavily in Latin American countries.

Youth Presented Scout Award

Edward Ransom, 15, of Troop 607- Upland, was presented the highest award in Scouting, the Eagle, at a recent Court of Honor held at the First Presbyterian Church. Taking part in the presentation were his father, Bob Ransom of Upland, and grandfather, Edward B. Ransom of Altadena, both of whom received the Eagle award as boys. Rev. Robert Gillogly gave the invocation. The charge was given by Joe Price of Pomona.

The new Eagle Scout, while earning the rank, has also been active in the youth group of his church, "The New Community," and is working toward the "God and Country" award. He is a student at Upland High School and has been a carrier for the Daily Report for the past two years.

Ed has been elected president of the newly formed Explorer Post 607 which will afford him an outlet for his continued interest in hiking, backpacking, cycling, scuba-diving, skiing and other activities.

Reach Out Announces Start Of Group Meetings

Reach Out West End, located at 404 West D St. in Ontario, announced recently that group meetings are conducted every night at headquarters for all ages.

More in-depth problem sessions are the goal of the new sessions. Frank Romo, group leader, explained that a 10 week commitment group has just ended. It had its first retreat in Yucca Valley at the home of Mr. and Ms. Virgil K. Benton. The desert retreat proved quite successful. Changing the complete environment permitted them to be together under an atmosphere of contemplation, soul searching and relaxation, for a period of twenty four hours, Romo said.

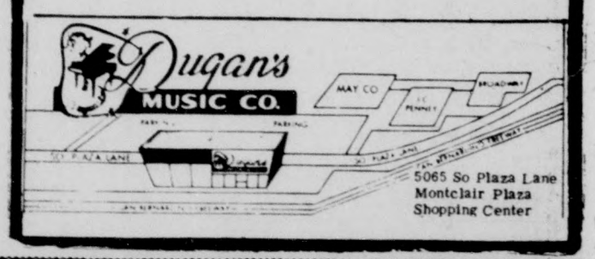

Other groups from ROWE are thinking of marathons which will be another "first" for ROWE.

HAROLD MIELKE FAMILY

Reaping The 'Good Vibes'

By PATRICIA REID

It's often surprising how far a little love and kindliness can go. The Harold Mielke family of Upland are realizing that there's no limits to goodness and are reaping "good vibrations" today from a good samaritan deed they did this summer on a camping trip.

The entire family of 8, (including 6 well-behaved children), was present at the Dec. 18 Upland City Council meeting to speak on behalf of their request for a Conditional Use Permit to establish a family restaurant across the street from City Hall. To their surprise they were especially honored by Upland Mayor Abner B. Haldeman that night. Mayor Haldeman told about a letter he received from a woman on a senior citizen bus tour who was grateful for the kindness expressed by the Mielke family this summer at a campground in Montana. The senior citizens bus tour was stranded for some time in the campground while their bus was being repaired.

Like the Bible parable of the loaves and fishes that multiplied - somehow the family managed to stretch their onion soup and homemade bread and cookies to go around and feed the 45 members of the tour group. The lady also said they comforted the bus riders and that they all shared a happy time together. At the end of the meal, one of the men pulled out a pitch pipe and the bus tour throng all chimed in sining "God Be With You." Ms. Mielke has since corresponded with different members of the group and received Christmas greetings from several of them.

Another unfoldment from that summer vacation was the inspiration to go into the "Soup" business -- family style with hometown hospitality. Harold Mielke, who was born in Weisbaden, Germany, has a fine reputation as an excellent soup maker. Ms. Mielke said, "It's been a long standing family joke that Harold should SELL his good homemade soup." She said guests and relatives all lavishly compliment him on the brew. Somehow during their vacation travelings the family joke of "let's sell soup" got to be a main topic of conversation for the whole family. "The kids were getting really elated about the idea of working together to sell soup," Ms. Mielke said.

Shortly thereafter they began seriously looking for old homes in Upland that could be converted into a homey, family-style restaurant and happened across the old "eye-sore" home located at the southeast corner of First Ave. and "D" St. across from city buildings. Things fell into place for them from then on and the Council granted them final permission for the new restaurant on Dec. 18. When asked how the unique name, "The Souper," came about Ms. Mielke said it was an outgrowth of "Super-Duper" restaurant. "We want a family-style place that's like coming home to Mother," she continued.

The energetic family has moved into the upstairs portion of the restaurant-to-be and plans on totally remaking the house. All food served in "The Souper" is to be fresh and homemade and soup with homemade bread will be featured.

The Council put a three-year limit on the amount of time the family can live upstairs. Eventually they hope to expand the restaurant upstairs and offer private meeting rooms and special Birthday Party room for private parties. The Mielkes will run the restaurant as a family business and do all the cooking, serving, etc. themselves. They plan to have approximately 14 tables downstairs to begin with. "I doubt if tables and chairs will match or anything else -- we just want the atmosphere to be warm and homey," Ms. Mielke emphasized.

The closeknit family is very enthusiastic about the new business venture and their joyful spirit leaves you with a very strong impression that the quaint, family-style restaurant can't help but be a success. The Mielkes hope their senior citizen friends will stop by sometime again for another cup of soup -- this time at their new restaurant.

IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR -- The entire Mielke family is getting in the house cleaning act lately. Having been granted permission by Upland City Council to establish a new family restaurant "The Souper" in the old home across from City Hall, the Mielkes moved into the old house last week and are working diligently to get the restaurant going.

New 'Family' Development Completed In Alta Loma

Crowell/Leventhal Inc. located at 570 E. Foothill Blvd. in Pomona, announced the completion of another single-family development in the Alta Loma area.

Stone Ridge, located on Orange, three blocks west of Carnelian Ave. closely resembles the firm's horse ranch community, C/L Ranch Homes, located in this same area. C/L Ranch was so successful that the same style homes are being offered again in the Stone Ridge development.

These homes - up to five bedrooms - are built to suit the needs of growing, active California families. Sprawling ranch style exteriors are perfectly attuned to the lovely backdrop afforded by the expanse of the San Gabriel mountains, on whose foothills this development is built.

Crowell/Leventhal's homes feature ash paneling and hand-rubbed ash cabinets. Vaulted ceilings add a touch of elegance, while such features as laminated plastic kitchen counters and concrete drives help keep maintenance low. Standard features include 10,000 sq. ft. lots with underground utilities, livable floor plans, cedar shake roofs, fireplaces with gas log lighters, Frigidaire self-cleaning electric range and oven, quality Frigidaire dishwasher, heavy duty garbage disposal, fully insulated exterior walls and ceilings, gas forced air heat, ducted for optional air conditioning, and continuous filament nylon wall-to-wall carpeting in living room, hall and master bedroom. Buyers may also choose from a number of options which may be purchased at C/L decorator center.

Local DAR Awards Girls

The San Antonio Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution recently awarded Good Citizenship awards to six West End girls. The girls, all high school students, received their awards at an evening ceremony in the First United Methodist Church of Ontario.

Ms. Caroll G. Kissick, DAR area regent, presented the awards during a combined meeting and party for the girls, their parents, chapter members and invited guests.

Award winners were: Ms' Terri Downs, Alta Loma High School; Debbie Dunn, Chaffey High School; Pamela J. Lembke, Montclair High School; Karen White, Ontario High School; Sheryl Meendering, Ontario Christian High School; and Judy Hiramine, Upland High School.

The award is presented annually by each chapter of the National DAR to graduating seniors from participating public and private high schools in their area. Winners are chosen for dependability, leadership, service and patriotism. The aim of the DAR's Good Citizens committee is to honor, recognize and promote these qualities.

The mother of each award winner presents her daughter with a certificate and pin provided by the DAR. The San Antonio chapter also gives each winner an engraved, silver Paul Revere bowl.

An annual state award of a $100 savings bond is given to one girl and, on the national level, the winner receives a $1,000 scholarship to the college of her choice.

Uplanders Watch Tax Funds Work Here

In 1973, Upland residents can find ample evidence of where the city's tax income is spent by watching the development of the Upland Civic Center, Recreation Building and two new parks.

The city council has given tentative approval to the construction of a new council chamber and administrative building at the corner of Arrow Hwy. and Euclid Ave. The council recently appropriated $269,000, or 68 percent of the city's revenue sharing income for 1972-73, for the Civic Center project.

City Manager Elwin "Pinky" Alder recently said construction of the new administration building will aid citizens in their dealings with city government. "The staff will be housed in one structure as opposed to being scattered throughout five buildings over a two block area as they now are. The efficiency of operations to be gained from having proper contiguous working space will result in improved cost efficiency and better service to Uplanders," Alder said of the project.

A new recreation building in Magnolia Park on 15th St. near San Antonio Ave. is scheduled for completion Feb. 1.

AT BOTANIC GARDEN

Training For Guides Offered

Dr. Lee W. Lenz, director of Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden in Claremont, announced that training sessions will begin tomorrow, Jan. 5, for persons wishing to volunteer their time to guide school-age children on tours of the botanic gardens.

Training classes will meet each Friday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. through Feb. 23. Applicants need not have had any previous science training. Further information and applications can be obtained by calling 626-1917.

Volunteers' main function is "to assist young people in observing and interpreting nature as seen in the garden," said Dr. Lenz.

Class topics will include basic botany and biology, inter-relationships in nature, native uses of plants and methods of conducting tours.

"If you have an interest in nature and are willing to share this interest with children, the nature interpreters program can be a rewarding experience," he said.

New Year's Baby's A Boy!

The first baby to greet the new year in a West End hospital was born Monday at 2:44 a.m. to Mr. Javier and Ms. Pauline Osornia of Upland.

Javier Jr. weighed in at 9 lbs. 3 ozs. Both mother and child are doing fine. This is the Osornia's first child.

Javier and Ms. Osornia are both 19. He attended Garey High School and now works for a pest control company. Ms. Osornia attended Montclair High School.

The Osornias live at 1356 1/2 Bowen St., Upland, with Ms. Osornia's parents, Mr. and Ms. F. Orozco.

Alcoholism Prevention Meeting Set Tonight

Persons interested in helping solve the alcoholism problem are invited to attend a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the West End Health Center, 1020 West 6th St., Ontario.

The West End liaison committee to the San Bernardino County Alcoholism Services resulted from a public hearing held in November. At that meeting many needs or lack of services were identified in dealing with the problem of alcoholism in the West End such as: survey of available resources and development of directory; money for services; crisis hot line; reporting the area needs to San Bernardino Alcoholism Services; court program for drunk drivers; survey of community hospitals and attitudes towards alcoholics; detoxification centers; training of personnel; follow-up after detoxification; education of the community.

SORRY SUBSIDY

Upland And Ontario Ponder The Bus Line Blues

Southern California Rapid Transit District directors have refused to help subsidize the planned reestablishment of the Upland-Ontario bus line. As a result, city staffs in Upland and Ontario are recommending to their city councils that the two cities bear the full cost of subsidizing the bus line.

Bus service could start by mid-February if the two city councils and the transit district board agree to full subsidy by the cities. Service had previously been scheduled to start in mid-January.

Under the recommendations, the two cities would subsidize the bus line with funds they receive from the new state sales tax on gasoline.

The transit board's rejection was in reaction to the previous unanimous refusal by San Bernardino County and the cities in the county of the transit district's claims on allocations to the cities from the sales tax on gasoline. The district wants the county and the cities to subsidize the existing bus service on Holt Blvd. and Arrow Hwy. which links West End cities to Los Angeles and San Bernardino. The subsidies would make up the losses from the Holt and Arrow routes last year. They will be computed on the basis of the distance the buses travel through each city.

A transit district appeal of the rejection of the district's claims will be heard by the executive committee of the Southern California Association of Governments on Jan. 11.

The transit board rejected the subsidy of the new Upland-Ontario line despite a transit district staff recommendation favoring the subsidy.

The original agreement, approved by the Upland and Ontario city councils, called for the transit district to subsidize 29 percent of the net cost of the bus line until June 30. The transit district subsidy would have ended after that date.

Ontario Assistant City Manager Roger D. Hughbanks said the total gross cost of the Upland-Ontario bus line is estimated at $4,589 per month. The estimated fare box revenues would reduce the monthly cost to $3,212. If the fare estimate, described as "conservative," is correct, Ontario would pay 58 percent of $1,863 of the $3,212 net monthly cost and Upland would pay 42 percent or $1,349, should the two cities bear the full subsidy cost.

The new bus line would serve south Ontario, downtown Ontario, government offices on Mountain Ave., downtown Upland and medical offices near San Antonio Hospital in Upland between 6:20 a.m. and 6:20 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Chorale Sings

Inland Cities Master Chorale has been singing every Monday night from 7 to 10 p.m. in the music room, North Hall 102, San Bernardino Valley College.

The director, Jack Andriese, is hopeful that by gaining more male voices the group can achieve a desirable balance in order to perform this spring. There are fifty people singing and twenty male voices will be added.

Appointments for auditions may be made by calling San Bernardino Valley College 885-0231, or Ms. Margaret Foss, general manager of the group, at 883-5758.

Master works being considered this spring are Faure "Requiem" Mozart "Coronation Mass" and "A Night of Pops and Opens" with an internationally famous vovalist.

Boy Catches Big Trout

The trout weighed 11-1/2 ounces.

How To Build In The 'Hills'

The early snowfall and predicted long, heavy winter in the Sierra have served to jog the thinking of many people who have homes in the mountains or who are planning to build above the snowline. The question is, "How do you prepare your mountain vacation or leisure home for winter?"

One man who thinks about this sort of thing more than the ordinary builder, and especially more than the ordinary consumer, is Duane Martin.

Martin is construction coordinator of Boise Cascade's Leisure Homes Division at Incline Village, Nevada, a self-contained recreation community located on the North Shore of Lake Tahoe.

His past experience as a building contractor serves Martin well in his prime function of helping property owners at Incline Village avoid the pitfalls that can plague the inexperienced.

According to Martin, the key is sound advance planning. "The mistakes you avoid by good planning--before construction begins --will save you money and alot of headaches in the long run," Martin believes.

A strong advocate of full insulation, Martin points out that fully insulating floors, walls, and ceilings will provide a warm and toasty interior even during the roughest winter storms, and at less money than it would take to heat a poorly insulated home.

"The money you spend in insulation can be saved 10 times over in heating bills," adds Martin.

He notes that 40 percent of heat loss is through the floor, with 20 percent of the heat loss through glass that is not double thick. "Some people overlook or skimp on good floor insulation but go ahead and spend alot of money on thick window panes. Their money would really be better spent on the insulation."

While not necessarily recommending one heating system over another, Martin points out that gas is generally cheaper than electricity. Forced air heating is more expensive to install but in the long run is less expensive to operate and maintain.

Another important fact to remember in colder climates is that gas hot water heaters generally recover more quickly than those operated electrically.

"And, more important, if a power failure occurs during a major storm, gas service is not normally interrupted, as it is underground."

Martin, who coordinates all building done by Boise Cascade at Incline Village, arranged for the Sierra Pacific Power Company and Southwest Gas to make an engineering study of heat loss in the North Tahoe area. The data gathered was put to good use in the planning and design of Boise's condominium project, Forest Pines, and in subsequent single family homes built by the company.

Another heating feature Martin recommends is heat tape. This consists of running a low voltage electrical wire on exterior overhangs to prevent ice build up and roof and wall damage. Cost of installation is about $250 on an average home of 1,200-1,500 square feet.

The heat tape is thermostatically controlled and usually set about 40 degrees.

Real Two-Party System: Children And Adults

The United States, as everybody knows, is divided into two political parties--and no, these parties are not called Republicans and Democrats. The real two-party system is known as Children and Adults.

The party lines work out a bit vaguely, since Adults classify anyone under 30 as a child, while Children classify anyone over 18 as an Adult.

The in-between people, of course, are dismissed by both parties as Adolescents. Neither Adults nor Children turst Adolescents, but the Adolescents do act as a buffer zone. Besides, every two-party system needs a third party to kick around.

Like all politics, generational politics is based upon certain myths. These myths, in fact, haven't changed for 50 to 75 years, yet nobody in either party appears to have noticed.

The chief myth of the Children is that they are innocent, hapless victims of a police state known as the family which is crushing their psyches under hobnailed boots labeled "Because-I-Say-So."

A recent Jules Feiffer cartoon classically dramatized the campagin posture of the Children Party. A first-clenched little girl in what looks like a fringed jacket is shown, carrying on a defiant monologue with herself (and with the sinister Them):

"I ask them: 'How come I have to eat food that I hate?'

"And they say: 'It's good for you.'

"I ask them: 'How come I have to go to school that I hate.'

"And they say: 'It's good for you.'

"I ask them: 'How come I have to belong to clubs that I hate?'

"And they say: 'It's good for you.'

"I ask them: 'How come you smoke and drink and watch TV all night?'

"And they say: 'Our unhappy childhoods'."

Brilliant! But is the Feiffer legend really true? To be quite literal, how many 1972 children eat what they don't want to? How many join clubs they detest? As for schools, how did Mr. Feiffer ever manage to get out of range of the ubiquitous PTA chorus, "Let's make learning fun?"

Equal time now must be granted the Adult opposition, whose myth is that Adults are tolerant, loving people being pushed around by the toughest junior militants since the Children's Crusade. ("All the thanks you get . . ." And so on.)

The campaign literature of Adults may be sampled in a recent column by Ann Landers. A desperate mother wrote to Ann for help. Her child, it seems, finished the strawberries in her own shortcake, than asked for Mommy's. Mommy loved her child, but she loved her strawberries, too. What was she to do?

Ann hard-lined it: Eat your strawberries, Mom. Nobody's entitled to second helpings of other people's first helpings.

Again, a neutralist--if there can be such a person--must ask: Is this sad picture accurate? How many parents are going to bed, unfed by their children?

Which myth is right, that of the Adult Party or the Children Party? Is the country going to the dogs because of overage despots or underage barbarians? People--adults, children, even adolescents--tend to assume that one or the other partisan explanation must be true.

The fact is, things are happening that fit neither myth--indeed, that deny both.

For example: One of the generational-politics cliches is that Children are fanciful creatures with gossamer imaginations--Peter Pans brought down to earth by Adults (the clods!) harping upon "facts" and "pragmatism."

But if one goes by reading tastes--a sound indicator--children are probably consuming more "factual," more "real" books than ever before. Children's literature, even children's TV -- to say nothing of evermore-relevant schools -- are chock full of "problem-solving" material about race relations, drugs, and so forth.

Meanwhile, adults are flying with "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and tuning in on the ghost stories and ESP fantasies that now qualify for prime time on TV.

Every year children seem to get older and adults seem to get younger--or at least try to. And none of this fits the ancient myths.

Perhaps the time has come to realign the parties to conform to the facts: Children are precociously wordly New Mathmen, Adults are recycled Peter Pans.

Who knows? Perhaps the time has come to give up generational politics altogether.

Ms. Atwell-'The Subject Of Ceramics Is Art'

GIANT MUSHROOM -- Large ceramic mushroom is made from a mold in much the same way that smaller ceramic pieces are shaped.

Wendy Atwell of Upland thinks that people should "learn the most they can about a subject -- if they're really interested in it."

Ms. Atwell, a former teacher at Montclair High School, now teaches ceramic classes for the city of Upland. "I was hired by the recreation department," she explained. "I taught a class in jewelry making at first, then I was made Arts and Crafts director."

Ms. Atwell teaches ceramics twice a week in the 'Potter's House' in the basement of Upland's First Presbyterian church. "We're hoping to expand the classes to Tuesdays," she said. "Right now, I've got a class Thursday morning and one Thursday night. I've got about 19 people who are registered with me and who come regularly to class.'

Ms. Atwell then described her art course. "My classes are unique in that I've been willing to teach my students everything I can about ceramics," she said. "In many classes dealing with ceramics, students don't actually make their own clay figures; they just paint them.

"The usual method is to sell a student a ready-made clay figure known as 'greenware,' The student glazes the figure, then takes it home and puts it on a table. And that's as far as he gets in learning about ceramics."

Ms. Atwell said her students all learn to make their own clay figures by using molds. "I'm also willing to show my students how to use a kiln and how to make a mold," she said. "Though, generally, that's not part of the course."

Ms. Atwell said ceramics is becoming a popular art form today. "By using molds, people can make beautiful bowls, vases and unusual art objects," she said. "Ceramics is fun once you get into it. Even my daughter Cara, who's only 6-1/2, likes to work with clay. It's a good way for her to express herself, and it makes her feel she's accomplishing something."

R. O'Bryan Engaged To Stephen Campbell

Stephen Campbell And Fiance Roxanne O'Bryan

Mr. and Ms. E. O'Bryan of La Canada announce the engagement of their daughter Roxanne to Stephen Campbell.

Ms. O'Bryan attended school in La Canada and also attended PCC.

Mr. Campbell is the son of Mr. and Ms. B. Campbell of Claremont. He attended school in Claremont, and recently served in the Army.

The wedding will take place Feb. 10 at St. Bedes Catholic Church in La Canada.

A Clunker Is Never Very Cute

Operating and maintenance costs can make owning a car anything but a joy ride, so make sure you consider these facts before you buy:

The price tag on any car is only the first cost that will confront you. A recent federal report said that by far the greatest single cost of operating a car is what's known as "depreciation," which is also the least understood of all the many factors that enter into car operation. Simply stated, depreciation is a reduction in the value of your car over a period of time, generally because of the wear and tear and from obsolescense.

For example, if you buy a car for $4,400 and sell or trade it in after roughly a year of normal use, it will have "depreciated" in value by $1,226. (If you do the same with a $2,700 compact car, it will be worth $647 less at the end of one year, and a $2,000 subcompact, such as a Volkswagen, will be worth $310 less.)

If you plan on using your car over a long period, this depreciation will probably be less important to you than if you plan to sell it after a year or so.

Depending partly on your driving habits, climate, garage facilities, the type road you generally drive, and of course on sheer luck, the average daily operating cost of a standard-sized, brand new car is $6.37. On a compact car, you'd pay $4.44 and on a subcompact, $3.09. After the first year, these costs drop by anywhere from $1.50 to 30 cents a day . . . again depending on such elusive variables as your knack for getting a lemon.

Women's Asso. Holds Meeting

Ms. Toshi Seligman was the featured guest at a meeting of the Ontario-Upland Branch of the American Association of University Women last night.

A native of Hokkaido, Northern Japan, Ms. Seligman attended school in Tokyo and is a graduate of the University of Maiji Law School. Her hobbies include classical dancing and playing Japanese instruments.

The theme for the program was 'Cultural Interests of Japan.'

Ms. Seligman wore her native costume. She played the hoto and gave examples of native dancing. She also explained the history of the kabui dance and the hoto.

most armed robbers are addicts

The man is desperate—his last fix wore off several hours ago. He pulls a gun, walks in and another crime statistic reads: "Armed robbery 1001 Blank Street, $50 taken. Owner shot and killed".

A man who's worked thirty years building up a small neighborhood business is dead—so a junkie can get $50 for another day's worth of heroin. And so it goes.

These rookie hijackings are stupid—and dangerous. This national upsurge in armed robbery started with the 'drug culture' in the middle and late '60s. Our law enforcement officers noticed a new breed of criminal: Very young men who robbed and became violent with no apparent reason.

With this vicious menace at hand, it is our duty to report any suspicious characters to your local police.

We are all in this together....Let's stop the drug pusher and crimes will decrease.

Weary Ganesha High Loses Another Tournament

UPTIGHT -- Jim Brown, Montclair's No. 35, struggles for possession of the ball in their 47-44 loss to Pacifica in the Chino High School Letterman's Basketball Tournament.

Long after his teammmames had left the practice field, Anthony Davis stood and patiently answered questions until the interview was concluded:

"You sure you got enough?" the No. 1 rusher on the No. 1 college football team in the country asked the sportswriter.

Assured so. University of Southern California's crack sophomore tailback smiled and said "Thank you for your interest" before trotting off the field.

Anthony Davis, the speedster who personally destroyed Notre Dame with a six-touchdown day, is as unspoiled as could possibly be. Winner of the Voit Memorial award as the Pacific Coast's outstanding college football player for 1972 and a second team All-American, Davis started the season as a third stringer. In fact, he didn't become a starter (supplanting junior Rod McNeill) until the middle of the Tropjans' perfect 11-0 season.

Yet he came on so fast that he became only the fifth running back -- and first sophomore -- to gain 1,000 yards in a year.

Davis bears an astonishing resemblance to two Southern Cal Heisman Trophy winners of the past -- the facial features of O. J. Simpson and the size and running style of Mike Garrett.

The son of a U. S. Postal Service clerk whose mother is a Head Start teacher, the 5-foot-9, 190-pound speedster has handled his sudden national fame without any problems.

The reason?

"I think what's ahead and not what's behind," Davis said. "The season is over and so is the Notre Dame game. That's the past; the future is ahead. I'm not going to tell you I don't enjoy reading articles about myself because I do. But I forget about an article after I've read it. You can't win a game just because somebody has written something nice about you."

In USC's last four games, Davis averaged 169 yards per contest and scored 12 touchdowns. He wound up as the team's leading performer in three departments; rush (1,034 yards), scoring (108 points) and kickoff returns (12 for 468 yards).

Against Notre Dame in the game which brought the Trojans and coach John McKay their third national championship in 11 years, the former high school quarterback from San Fernando had a 368-yard day. He returned three kickoffs for 218 yards and two touchdowns, rushed for 99 yards and caught three passes for 51 yards in a 45-23 rout.

During a workout, Davis is the object of good natured kidding from his teammates. But the fleet rookie also is highly respected, too, and not just for his onfield work.

"They (his teammates) know I'm a team ball player and when I do something I do it 100 percent, practices included."

Mt. Sac-Chaffey Score Wins

Mt. San Antonio College and Chaffey College each posted JC tournament wins Saturday night while Citrus College encountered shooting problems, taking it on the chin.

Mt. SAC came away from Santa Maria with the third place trophy in the annual Hancock Tournament. In a reverse of Friday night's game with Hancock, the Mounties were the team with few fouls, only three fouls called against them in the Saturday night game with DeAnza.

As a result, after leading by only three points, 35-32 at the intermission, the Mounties blitzed their opponents for 51 points, the foul-ridden Warriors netting only 23. The final score was 85-55 with MSAC taking the Third Place Trophy.

Jim Bogdanowicz scored 25 points for the Mounties. The MSAC forward was 15 for 15 at the free throw line for the tourney.

The win gives MSAC an 8-7 season record. The next game is Wednesday night when the Mounties will host Long Beach.

At Stockton, Chaffey College went over the century mark for the first time this season. With Fontana's Bob Kovach scoring 26 points and another freshmen from Fontana, Pierra Rankin, coming off the bench to score a game high 29, the Panthers defeated Consumnes River 104-77 to take seventh place in the San Joaquin Delta Tournament.

Margaret Mead Observes A Way Of Life: Her Own

Everyone knows who Margaret Mead is, right? She's that noted anthropologist, author of nearly two dozen books spanning 50 years, professor at various times at some of the country's leading universities, and social scientist extraordinaire.

Yes, that's Margaret Mead, all right. But there's another Ms. Mead (as one suspects she might like to be called, after reading her latest book), a person who has defied social convention throughout her life, a woman who practiced liberation long before it was fashionable to do so. A private person extraordinaire.

It is this Margaret Mead who is vividly revealed in Blackberry Winter: My Earlier Years, her autobiography from childhood in Pennsylvania up to World War II. It is a lively and surprising self-portrait, all the more so because its author has managed so successfully during most of her career to keep her private life private.

Many of us know, for example, of Miss Mead's expeditions to the South Seas, expeditions that produced such classics as her first published work, Coming of Age in Samoa. But how many have thought of the opposition she must have overcome, as a very young woman planning to work on her own among primitive peoples, simply to get to the South Seas? And that was back in the 1920s, when it was even more shocking than today for a young woman to undertake such an expedition.

She tells about this in Blackberry Winter, as well as about other, more private behavior that was -- and still is -- considered unconventional. There was, for instance, her insistence on keeping her maiden name when she married. There were her marriages themselves -- three of them, all coming lickety-split on the heels of one another, and the second and third arising out of professional relationships begun while she was still tied up in the first and second. There was her disregard of accepted medical wisdom by bearing her first and only child at the age of 38, brushing aside arguments against her use of the "new techniques of natural childbirth and breast-feeding. And there was her membership with her young daughter in what she calls a "joint household," and what today would be called a commune, for more than ten years.

Hardly one's standard picture of Margaret Mead.

Miss Mead braved other adventures as a "liberated woman" before there was such a term, and she relates them in clear, no-nonsense prose. But her book is more than the account of a spirited, determined woman always striving to be a person in her own right. It is, in a sense, another of Margaret Mead's anthropological studies, this time of her own life rather than others.

Right from the beginning, in fact, she says this is what she is about: "I bring my own life to throw what light it may on how children can be brought up so that parents and children, together, can weather the roughest seas." And she remains true to her word. She delves deeply into the formative influences exerted upon her by her strong-willed paternal grandmother, her mother -- a sociologist and feminist, as well as wife and mother of five children--and her keenminded, demanding, professorial father. And she delves just as deeply into the influence she has exerted on the lives of others--her husbands, her students, and most especially her daughter and granddaughter.

Many autobiographers attempt to derive larger meaning from their lives, of course, but because Margaret Mead is who she is--above all else, a student of human development, and a great one--she goes about her attempt with a special flair. Her book is a compilation of perceptive observations on human growth and human relations.

Although the book is rich in adventure and theoretical observation, however, it lacks in one important element: emotion. That is not to say Miss Mead does not discuss emotion; it is to say she does not vividly convey her feelings about the most important people and events in her life. Surely she experienced both great heights and depths in a life as rich and varied as hers, but there is no sense of them in her book.

Perhaps, however, this is a weakness arising from the book's very strength: so ably knotting the threads of the author's life in a rational, ordered pattern. But one can't help wishing that this extraordinary woman, who revealed so much of the basic nature of humankind, would have revealed just a little more of herself.

Miss Nude Canada In Town To Pick Miss Bare

Rhonda Lee Stallan, 23, who was crowned the First Miss Nude World (Canada) in 1970, arrived recently in Los Angeles, to act as assistant pageant director for the upcoming Miss Bare State Pageant. The Miss Bare State Pageant will be held at the Olive Dell Ranch, Reche Canyon Road, Colton, California, January 13 and 14, 1973.

Ms. Stallan is on the Executive Board of the Miss Nude World (Canada) Pageant, which is staged the first weekend in August each year at the Four Seasons Nature Park, Freelton, Ontario.

Rhonda Lee plans to tour Southern California with a group of the contest entrants. It is her contention that the Miss Nude World contest, and its affiliated divisionals, of which the Miss Bare State contest is the local one, are the most honest beauty contests anywhere. Ms. Stallan wants to make as many friends as possible while in the area, and will be available for appearances and interviews, radio, tv, or personal, alone or with a selection of Miss Bare State Contestants.

Other judges include Marilyn Fithian and Doctor William Hartman, as members of the panel of Judges for the pageant. Miss Fithian and Doctor Hartman, with Donald Johnson, are co-authors of the internationally acclaimed volume, "The Nudist Society". Ms. Fithian will be Chief Judge.

The 15-member panel is filling up. Also confirmed is the well known entertainment editor and drama critic, T. Foreman, of the Riverside Press-Enterprise. Neal Blum, widely known and respected public relations and publicity chairman for the Western Sunbathers, and as such, a member of the national Public Relations staff. Kearney Bothwell, correspondent for the news bureau of UPI - Los Angeles. Chris Roberts, popular disc jockey and music director for KFXM radio, at San Bernardino.

Cooking Is A Family Tradition

Cooking is a family thing at our house. Our daughter likes to cook, so do our two boys. And one or two of their friends (whose mothers don't like them to mess up their kitchens) often come to help out.

It all started with cupcakes. My mother used to tell her friends that I made my first cupcakes when I was three. So when our daughter was about that age, I started her on her first cupcakes. With the aid of a cake mix and cupcake papers, the experiment was a big success - even if it did take a while to get the batter off the chair, the table, the floor, and my daughter.

A few years later, her two younger brothers decided they too wanted to learn to make cupcakes. Two boys equaled three times the mess, but it was worth it to see how proud they were of what they'd accomplished.

Cupcakes soon led to other things - brownies and cakes (from mixes), puddings and other packaged desserts, pancakes, eggs, and even main dishes. When I make fruitcakes, the children help cut the fruit and crack the nuts. Cutting out and decorating Christmas cookies is something else they enjoy.

Decorations added

The boys feel right at home in the kitchen now, and they're usually the first to volunteer to bring the dessert for the class party or Cub Scout meeting. Of course, they do they do their own baking, and cupcakes are still first choice, but now they're decorated with wild and wonderful designs made with a cake-decorating set and various colors of frosting.

Pizza is something else the children like to make - and they always make it from scratch. In fact, they have become highly critical of other pizza (the ready-made king) which they feel doesn't measure up to theirs.

A family tradition

With children, the secret to building enthusiasm for cooking is to help them learn to make things they enjoy eating. That's how our daughter became the family expert in making chocolate-chip cookies and beef stew.

And that's how all the children have become experts in making grape jam. We all like it in peanut butter sandwiches. Now making the jam has become a family tradition, every year. The children call the jam "Old Railroad Track Grape" because it's made from wild Concord grapes that grow along an abandoned railroad line not far from our house.

Every fall the children and I (and sometimes several of their friends) go hunting for the grapes. Often, we can smell them before we see them -- that's how we know where to look. After we've washed them and removed the stems, I put newspapers all over the kitchen floor, and the fun begins. The grapes are dumped into a couple of big kettles, and the children crush them.

Everyone takes turns stirring as the grapes cook in the big kettles. Then the children strain out the seeds and skins with the Foley Food Mill. They stir again as the jam is cooked some more, then poured into jars and sealed with wax.

Ready for freezer

Making applesauce has also become a family tradition. It's done in no time because the children and their friends cut up the apples, remove seeds and stems, and stir the apples as they cook. This year, I had to leave the house when the applesauce was only half made. I wondered how it would turn out, but when I came home I found nine quarts of delicious applesauce neatly packed in containers ready for the freezer.

After I started working, I began to appreciate even more how nice it is to have children who like to cook. Often, I come home to find a freshly baked and frosted cake or some other dessert ready for supper. Sometimes, the whole supper is ready. If I have to be away for a day or two, I work out the menus and never have to worry whether the family is being well fed.

Even though the children aren't the neatest cooks in the world, their culinary escapades give them a great deal of satisfaction. They know they're really making a contribution to the operation of our household. Last year, when our youngest son was in fourth grade, he was asked to write a short composition on the subject, "Happiness is . . ." This is what he wrote:

"Happiness is walking along the railroad tracks, making a tree house, gathering up grapes. Happiness is making jam and cooking."

--Beverly W. Lydiard

Missing Vitamins--A & C

Fruits and vegetables high in vitamins A and C are too often missing in children's diets. Recent studies on fourth graders show that one-third of the children were not getting enough vitamins A and C, reports University of California Home Advisor Sharon Higgins.

Vitamins A and C are problem vitamins in children's diets as well as in those of many age groups. Why? Because not enough fruits and vegetables are served daily in family's meals. Researchers have found that children often do not eat these foods because they are imitating adults.

Children will choose or refuse foods, reflecting the attitudes and actions of parents and other children in the family, said Ms. Higgins.

To add vitamin C to your daily diet, every day include a serving of one of these vitamin C-rich fruits -- oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, tomatoes and their juices.

Vitamin C-rich vegetables include broccoli, brussel sprouts, turnip or mustard greens, cabbage, spinach, cauliflower, green pepper, sweet potatoes or potatoes.

Every other day include foods that are good sources of vitamin A. Foods like dark green and yellow vegetables such as broccoli, spinach, turnip greens, carrots, pumpkin, winter squash and sweet potatoes.

Or you can serve cantaloupe, dried or fresh apricots, peaches or prunes. Other foods containing vitamin A are liver, whole milk, cheese, butter and fortified margarine or fortified skim milk.

You need vitamin A for normal vision, healthy skin, and healthy linings of the nose and throat.

Eat vitamin C to help strengthen walls of blood vessels, resist infections, and aid in healing wounds.

Bouncing!

In Tune--One, Two-- To The Cranberry Hop

WAREHAM, MASS. -- Cranberries are bouncing better than ever. That's the test of a good berry--how high it can bounce for how long. And this year's irrepressible crop looks as if it were picked at a Lawrence Welk Polka Party.

Bogs have been bursting with tart red fruit. Growers in Massachusetts are glowing just as happily. This fall they harvested half of the world's supply of cranberries -- enough for one pound of berries per person in the United States, with some left over for turkey-stuffers in Britain, Belgium and Germany.

As we walked through the wet bogs we were told that cranberries are the only native North American berry. Cape Cod Indians served wild cranberries at the first Thanksgiving dinner. New England sea captains carried barrels of them on long ocean voyages to satisfy fresh-fruit appetites. Martha Washington sent her Valley Forged-in general a zesty winter cranberry sauce and Dolly Madison was famous for, among other things, her cranberry muffins.

Cranberry festivals now are a memory of the past when young girls in feather costumes danced with automated cans of cranberry sauce in symbolic union of the cranberry and poultry industries. There hasn't even been a cranberry harvest queen for 25 years.

"But lots of oldtimers still take a week's vacation from city jobs and come out and help pick the bogs," says Dr. Chester E. Cross, director of the University of Massachusett's Cranberry Experimental Station in Wareham. "They fish in the bog reservoirs in the early morning, and after the dew has lifted and the vines are dry, they pick along the edges of the bogs where machines can't go."

Berries have been popping out of bogs so fast these days that growers in five states have decided to set a voluntary production quota for their individual bogs to start with the 1974 harvest.

The latest machine-picker to surge on the autumnal scene is a cantankerous-looking large yellow egg beater on wheels designed for "wet-picking." Bogs are flooded with water and picking "gangs" in rubber overalls slosh in, prodding their beaters before them. Rotary blades tumble the submerged vines, berries bob to the surface, and autumn breezes puff them in to shore like so many waves of pink foam sherbet. Some 30 percent of last year's crop was "wet picked" and more growers are switching to the system this fall.

There are, however, occupational trepidations of sorts in flood picking.

Autumn breezes may outdo themselves, whipping the shallow bogs into rolling seascapes. Then truck radios crackle back and forth between the scattered pick-up gangs: "We're having trouble standing up against the wind," gurgles one, "but I think we'll make it."

Frogs also have a way of popping up, surprised, on packing-plant sorting tables.

But they don't pass the bounce test.

Importing Fuel From Russia May Be Possible

The gas that lights American stoves and heats American homes may one day flow all the way from Russia.

A preliminary deal is reported near for the import of natural gas from the Soviet Union's huge deposits in Siberia. A number of American firms have been negotiating for almost a year to grasp the reins on perhaps the largest commercial venture in history.

The colossal project, involving billions of dollars, has a long way to go, however. Even if an initial agreement is reached before the end of the year, it will necessitate some major decisions by the new administration, for it raises the whole question of the United State's energy policy in the face of the country's growing fuel needs.

To what extent is the United States willing to become dependent on Soviet sources of supply?

Does it wish to grant the Russians credits to the tune of, say $5 billion, when the Export-Import Bank even now has a total in debts outstanding less than that?

Behind these decisions will lie not only economic but political considerations, since trade is a key factor in Washington's effort to improve relations with Moscow -- and the Russians at present have little else than raw materials to sell the Americans.

In any event, two separate 25-year projects are involved in the talks between the Soviet government and the private companies:

--Import of about 2 billion cubic feet of gas a day to the East Coast, probably the New York-Cove Point, Md. area. A pipeline would run from the Urengoy deposit in western Siberia to Murmansk, where a liquefaction plant would be built and special tankers would pick up the gas.

--Import of between 1 and 1.5 billion cubic feet of gas a day to the West Coast of the United States, possibly Los Angeles, Long Beach, San Francisco, or Portland, as well as into Japan. This would entail construction of a pipeline from Yakutsk in eastern Siberia to the port of Nakhodka on the Pacific Ocean, as well as of a liquefaction plant and tankers.

Negotiating on the East Coast project are Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation, Brown and Root, Inc., and Tennaco, Inc. The firms have announced they expect to reach a preliminary accord before the end of 1972.

On the West Coast project, these three companies are competing with a second American trio for the rights for the gas. Japanese firms, too, are involved.

The dollar-and-cents bill staggers the imagination. For the East Coast project it is estimated that American equipment, material and services for mile pipeline, liquefaction plant in Murmansk, terminal plant in the U.S. and about 20 tankers would cost between $5 and $6 billion.

Construction of the pipeline to Nakhodka (which would be between 2,100 and 2,500 miles long), liquefaction plant, and 11 to 16 tankers would run about the same, for a total of some $10 billion.

At this stage the American companies have done only initial feasibility studies on the Urengoy-Murmansk-East Coast project. Once a go-ahead is given by the Russians, they would proceed to do detailed engineering surveys and to apply for import licenses with the Federal Power Commission, which would also have to approve the price of the gas.

The Soviet Government, meanwhile, would approach the Export-Import Bank.

It would be perhaps mid-1973 before such apand a year or two before construction began. The Western companies would expect to begin delivery of the gas sometime between 1978 and 1980.

In the case of the Yakutsk venture, it has not yet been proven that the gas reserves there are sufficient to support the project. Hence the first step will be to agree with the Russians on a drilling survey.

Assuming both projects are consummated, the Siberian imports would account for about 5 to 7 percent of the total U. S. gas consumption by that time.

'Y' Plans Class

The Ontario - Upland YMCA will conduct a special Physical Education class for any 5 to 13-year-old boy or girl who has coordination or neurological difficulties. The class started Dec. 15 and will continue each Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. for 10 weeks.

The program, taught by a well qualified staff, led by Cal Poly Graduate Nick Maricic, will attempt to provide skill instruction for youngsters who have perceptual and conceptual difficulties. According to Maricic, such children are "Easily distracted because of poor concentration, have eye problems and poor peer group relationships stemming from lack of coordination".

Maricic said the children are divided four to a counselor and then taken through a variety of activities and equipment such as tilt boards, balance beam, skip rooms, hula hoops and tumbling exercises. The children are tested and evaluations are given to the parents.

For more information, call the Y, 215 C St. Ontario at 986-5847.

Otters Move Into Sea World

Four sea otters from the vicinity of Monterey Bay are now at Sea World in San Diego for a three-year scientific study of the otters' behavior and feeding habits. The study is being conducted in cooperation with the State Department of Fish and Game, which arranged for the capture of the mammals and their delivery to Sea World.

Five otters were sent by plane to Sea World, but one of two males delivered died after several days of illness. Death was attributed to the complications of exposure to cold.

The other four otters were reported in excellent shape by Paul W. Wild, DFG associate marine biologist.

At Sea World the otters are in complete isolation -- away from public view. They will be kept there until they become thoroughly acclimated to their surroundings.

Wild said that the otter fatality probably occurred because cold water reached the mammal's skin. Normally, the otter's dense fur traps air that insulates him from the water and cold and helps maintain the buoyancy that allows him to float. Matting of the hair or too long an absence from water can allow cold to pierce the skin and cause death from exposure.

Wild said all possible steps were taken to save the ill sea otter. He was kept on a raft under heat lamps, and Wild later used a hair dryer in an attempt to dry his fur. Dr. Jay Sweeney, Sea World veterinarian, was in constant attendance.

Chi-Rho Club Aids Poor

The Chi-Rho youth club of Our Lady of Assumption Church in Claremont plan to visit the Rancho Nazareth Orphanage in Mexico Saturday. For the past several months, the club has been collecting canned foods, clothing and toys to give to the children.

The Mattel Toy Co., and Brockway Glass of Pomona are the two main contributors to the project. Mattel donated several hundred new toys, and Brockway supplied more than a thousand boxes for packing.

Donations of canned foods, clothing toys, soap, etc. can be donated by phoning 593-7898 or 624-000.

Faculty Named At College

Appointments of 17 new Pomona College faculty members, 14 to teach full-time and three part-time, for the 1972-73 academic year, have been announced by Dr. David Alexander, college president.

Three of the appointments are in the history department, two each in the chemistry, English and military science departments, and one each in the art, botany, economics, government, philosophy, religion, sociology and the theater arts departments.

Assigned to the history department are Dr. Stephen Gallup and Dr. Louisa Hoberman, both full-time assistant professors, and Dr. Michael R. Harris, part-time assistant professor.

Dr. Gallup, who has been a tutor in history at St. Antony's College, Oxford, since 1970, obtained his B.A. degree from Pomona College, his B. Litt. from Oxford University, and his Ph.d. from the University of California Los Angeles. Dr. Hoberman received her B.A. degree cum laude from Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., and her M.A. and Ph.d. degrees from Columbia University, New York. Dr. Harris, who is a former assistant director of admissions at Pomona College and former director of the Claremont Institute of Higher Education, Claremont Graduate School, has been assigned to teach history on a part-time basis during the spring semester. He received his B.A., M.A., and Ph.d. degrees from Stanford University, Calif.

The chemistry department has been enhanced by the appointments of Dr. Michael J. Kelly and Dr. Nelson F. Phelan, both visiting assistant professors.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ABANDONMENT OF HIGHWAY

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a petition has been filed with the Board of Supervisors, signed by at least ten freeholders, of whom at least two are residents of the Second Road District of the County of San Bernardino and who are taxable therein for road purposes, petitioning the Board of Supervisors to abandon a highway situated in the Second Road District in the County of San Bernardino, State of California, described as follows, to-wit:

All that portion of the Southeast quarter of the Northwest quarter of Section 11, Township 1 South, Range 7 West, CUCAMONGA LANDS, as per plat recorded in Book 4 of Maps, Page 9, records of said County, described in Parcel No. 3 of that certain conveyance to said County, by John F. Anderson et. ux., recorded November 20, 1963 in Book 6033, Page 626, Official Records of said County, lying NORTHERLY of a line that is parallel with, and distant 50.00 feet North, of the South line of said Northwest quarter, (said South line also designated "℄ Improvement and ℄ Survey", on Precise Plan No. V-335, adopted by the Board of Supervisors of said County on February 2, 1959, said plan on file in the Office of the County Engineer of said County), and lying WEST of a line that is parallel with, and distant 44.00 feet West of the center line of Turner Avenue.

EXCEPTING THEREFROM, a triangular shaped parcel of land bounded as follows:

On the SOUTH by a line that is parallel with, and 50.00 feet North of the South line of aforesaid Northwest quarter of Section 11;

On the EAST by a line that is parallel with, and 44.00 feet West of the center line of aforesaid Turner Avenue;

And on the NORTHWEST by the arc of a curve, concave to the NORTHWEST, having a radius of 20.00 feet, which said curve is tangent to last mentioned parallel lines.

RESERVING AND EXCEPTING, from said abandonment the easement and right at any time, or from time to time to construct, maintain, operate, replace, remove and renew sanitary sewers, storm drains and appurtenant structures, in, upon, over, and across any highway or part thereof proposed to be abandoned and pursuant to any existing franchise or renewals thereof, or otherwise, to construct, maintain, operate, replace, remove, renew and enlarge lines of pipe, conduits, cables, wires, poles and other convenient structures, equipment and fixtures for the operation of gas pipe lines, telegraph and telephone lines, railroad lines and for the transportion or distribution of electric energy, petroleum and its products, ammonia, water, and for incidental purposes, including access to protect the property from all hazards in, upon, and over the highway or part thereof proposed to be abandoned.

That said petition has been set for hearing before the Board of Supervisors on Monday, January 22, 1973, at eleven o'clock A.M. at the chambers of the said Board in the County Civic Building, 175 W. Fifth Street, Second Floor, San Bernardino, California, at which time all parties interested in said petition will be heard.

LOWERED VITAL RESISTANCE

There is an intelligence residing within our bodies, controlling and regulating all its functions and adapting us to our environment. It pumps the heart, expands the lungs, digests food, heals cuts and literall keeps us health. This life giving force communicates from brain cells to tissue cell through the nervous system.

Chiropractic recognizes that spinal distortions can produce a disruption in this communication system resulting in lowered vital resistance, hence you get a cold when it rains, tension headaches, indigestion, etc. Chiropractic locates these spinal distortions, corrects them by specific adjustments, restoring normal communicating pathways resulting in a higher vital resistance and a healthier body. Try Chiropractic.

THE ARTS

Alexander Solzhenitsyn: In Struggle Against Lies

People have called him a prophet, a martyr, the most important writer of this century. He has also been called a criminal, a traitor, and a charlatan.

Because of his writings, he and his family have been harassed and humiliated by the Soviet authorities, his personal records confiscated, his friends even subjected at times to physical violence.

Of all this century's intrigues, surely one of the most fantastic is the battle between Alexander Solzhenitsyn and his government. For every truth there is a half-truth; for every accusation a denial and counter-accusation.

And yet the irrefutable fact of Solzhenitsyn's greatness as a writer belies the miasma of deceit and confusion. "In the struggle against lies," he wrote in his acceptance speech for the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature, "art has always won and always will."

The lecture was never delivered, for Solzhenitsyn was afraid that if he went to Sweden for the ceremony he would not be allowed to return to Russia. This month two translations of the lecture are being published in the United States - the better of the two is Farrar, Straus & Giroux's bilingual edition, with its eloquent translation by poet and Russian scholar F.D. Reeve.

By turns lyrical, prophetic, bitingly satiric, the speech is a magnificent and moving statement of the artist's role as the conscience of mankind: "The task of the artist is to sense more keenly than others the harmony of the world, the beauty and the outrage of what man has done to it, and poignantly to let people know."

"A wave of events washes over us," Solzhenitsyn says - but the standards by which to evaluate them are afforded to few. Men continue to assess situations in personal terms, so that the sufferings of several million people on the other side of the world come to have less importance than minor discomforts closer to home.

In such an atmosphere moral anarchy reigns. Violence "brazenly and victoriously strides throughout the world," trumpeting a new-found justification. Daily, news of religious, ethnic, racial persecution, bombings, hijackings, and assassinations assails the world's conscience.

Leroy Neiman Exhibit In L. A. Jan. 11-Feb. 2

LeRoy Neiman's art chronicles man at his leisure, not only sporting events, but Las Vegas, Fashion, the Opera, the Theater, Bars, Cars and Resorts. All that glitters in present-day American culture is colorfully rendered by Neiman's brush and pen.

He is a superb draftsman and additionally a brilliant colorist. Yet his art transcends his technical skill. He catches the moment and mood that is the essence of a happening. And his art seldom fails to evoke a response in the viewer.

That the museum world is taking notice is evident in two one-man shows in the past six months, one at the Museo de Bellas Artes in Caracas and at the Indianapolis Museum of Art. A one-man show was completed Dec. 31 in Chicago and following the L.A. show, Neiman will show in Dallas, San Francisco and New York.

Neiman as an artist has traveled far. He and his art are present at almost every major American sports event, several of which have appeared as official posters and programs and he has been seen on tv sketching with a global audience. His XXth Olympiad for ABC tv received a greater audience than any other program in history.

He has had covers on Time and Newsweek magazines.

At the urging of Circle Gallery, Neiman first turned his attention to printmaking only about 2 years ago. With his customary energy and talent in this short period he has turned out a wealth of original prints - etchings, lithographs, and serigraphs. His serigraphs especially are technical marvels, and he has already achieved a reputation as an important American printmaker.

Artists To Meet

The regular meeting of the Associated Artists will be held Jan. 10, Wednesday, 9:30 a.m., at the United Trinity Methodist Church, 676 N. Gibbs, Pomona. The public is welcome to attend.

Joyce Pike, noted Southern California artist and teacher at the Art League in Los Angeles, will be the guest artist. Ms. Pike will be giving a real lesson at this demonstration and everyone should bring a notebook to take notes. She will use three canvasses and demonstrate three techniques, donating all three paintings at the end of the meeting. A drawing will be held to determine the lucky winners. A donation of $2 will be asked at this meeting.

On Jan. 15, 9:00 p.m., a "make-up workshop" will be held at the recreation room at Alta Laguna Mobile Home Park in Alta Loma. This will include instructions for making ribbon flowers, beaded necklaces, smocked pillows, and needlepoint. Members and guests wishing to attend should call Mille Schlegel, 987-5868, for pillows; Anna Ruth Pritchett, 984-4042 for ribbon flowers; Lois Clifford, 622-8084 for beads; and Goldie Wright, 986-4444 for needlepoint and you will get a list of needed materials.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

May we take this opportunity to express our appreciation to our many friends who have been so loyal through the years. Our success and growth could not have been made possible without your recommendations and referrals.

And our special thanks to the more than 6800 families who have given us the opportunity of assisting in their real estate transactions this year. Many of these were with the cooperation of our Realtor friends.

It is our wish your home may enjoy the blessings of the holiday season through the coming year.
